Today's History

August 23, 1950 - Myers Groo of Big Hollow Road is recovering at Kingston City Hospital from serious back injuries suffered last Tuesday while mowing with a tractor on his farm.

Lester Sheley has re-enlisted for six years in the Engineers Corps. Corp. Sheley has been in service for seven years with more than five years overseas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sheley of Grahamsville.

Observer Ed Lewis at the Red Hill tower has reported 19 fires this season. This may be a record, the lowest in many years. The crop of visitors has been very big, however, due, perhaps in part, to curiosity about the search tower nearby.

The dredging of the channel of the creek on the parsonage property at Low's Corners was let to Cooney Bros. last week by the trustees of the church. The channel is to be deepened, widened and straightened. The Cooney Bros. have the sand, gravel and rock. Two days last week the large bulldozer prepared the way, and Monday morning a power shovel moved gravel and rock out at the rate of one truck load in three minutes.

August 24, 1960 - Roger Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Edwards of Neversink, was named the winner in the showmanship contest held Saturday at the Orange County Fair. Roger, a member of the Tri Valley FFA, did an outstanding job of showing his Ayrshire heifer which he won two years ago from Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hoops of Slate Hill.

Two four-mile sections of Route 28, deep in the Catskills of Ulster County, are expected to be fully opened to traffic late this year. The section between Big Indian and Shandaken is due to be completed with its access roads early this fall.

Mrs. Roe Johnson was Guest of Honor at a Stork Shower in the Neversink Firehouse on Wednesday evening, August 17th. Cut flowers graced the tables where refreshments were served by the hostesses, Eva Knox, Olive Pomeroy and Marion Wolfe.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Robinson are holding "Open House" at their home on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 28th from 2 to 5 p.m. in celebration of the 50th Wedding Anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. DuBois of Sundown.

Thomas H. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith of South Hill, arrived home on Sunday from his sojourn in Alaska.

September 2, 1970 - The engagement of Miss Nancy Robin Lawrence to Airman Basic Harry S. Barkley has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Lawrence of Divine Corners, Loch Sheldrake. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Barkley, Sr. of Hasbrouck

Rd., Woodbourne.

Mr. and Mrs. Chandler P. Curry of Neversink have announced the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Anne, to George Keeler, son of Mrs. Adda Keeler of Youngsville and the late Orville Keeler.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Higgins and twin sons, Patrick and Timothy, age 6, have purchased and moved into the former Richter cabin on lower East Mountain Road. Mr. Higgins is a printer and commercial artist by trade. They are winterizing the cabin and expect to make it a permanent home.

August 28, 1980 - A Concert for the Burn Center, sponsored by the Town of Neversink Fire Prevention Committee, will be held at Sullivan County Community College on Oct. 5th at 7 p.m. The performers giving the concert will be Miles Ellison, Robert Krom and Dave Krom.

Marguerite H. Fenn, 68, of Riverside Drive, Woodbourne, died Wednesday, Aug. 20, 1980 at Community General Hospital, Harris. She was born Feb. 15, 1912 in Woodbourne to Frank and Rose Slaver Hartman. She was married to William H. Fenn who survives.

On Sunday, Tami Terwilliger celebrated her 16th birthday with a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Terwilliger.

Beverly Lynn Carlsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Carlsen of Simi Valley, California, formerly of Grahamsville and Washingtonville, and James William Landy of Hicksville, L.I., were united in marriage in a lovely outdoor wedding on the farm of the bride's grandfather, C. NOTE FROM LIBERTY FREE THEATRE:

Dear Friend,

I wanted to send you an update on the progress of our campaign to keep The Liberty Free Theatre going. For those who don't know, I'm away acting in a play that is paying well enough to help keep the theatre going through December. Upon my return in mid-September, we'll get right to work on our productions of The Dreamer Examines His Pillow and Krapp's Last Tape. We'll also immediately get to work organizing the fundraising and volunteer help needed to make the theatre a permanent institution in Sullivan County. We're grateful that enough friends have already volunteered their services and/or sent contributions for us to get started but more are needed still. We're hoping you're in a position to send a contribution and/or volunteer in any of the ways listed below in the original appeal (in which I neglected to put our mailing address - The Liberty Free Theatre, 109 South Main Street, Liberty, NY 12754).

Once again my deepest thanks for your continued enthusiasm and support.

Paul Austin

This is a critical time for The Liberty Free Theatre. It's very likely we won't be able to continue in our current home past December. Private funds that have supported the theatre for the last six years will have run out by year's end. Audience donations and benefit performances are not enough to keep the theatre going.

The community's enthusiastic reception to The Liberty Free Theatre has made it apparent that the people of Sullivan County want and deserve a theatre of substance that will continue to serve as an anchor for the cultural and social life of the community--a theatre of laughter and tears, of human folly and accomplishment, a theatre that entertains and enriches their daily lives. (Contd. Pg. 7)

HERE AND THERE

Welcome another couple to our Golden Wedding Anniversary Club. (We don't actually have one, but I'm beginning to think we should.) The newest inductees are Ward and Sandy Blade of Neversink, who celebrated on August 7 with family and a huge crowd of well-wishers at King's in Livingston Manor. Sandy wants everybody to know that it took daughter Amanda and friend Karen Stemen six hours to set up the floral arrangements at the hall, with fantastic results! By the way, you still have time to wish the Blades a Happy Anniversary. Their actual wedding date is August 28.

While we're talking about 'special days,' let us offer belated but most sincere Happy Birthday wishes to Alyssa Skidmore back on August 17. Alyssa, I'm sorry I missed your day. (That was the week I cancelled on short notice.) I have the feeling that it might have been a mile-stone birthday, like turning 21, or close to it. We hope that it was a happy one, whichever it was.

Early September promises to be busy if you take advantage of all the activities. On Sept. 1, the Tri-Valley Lions Club will hold a Rabies Clinic at the Grahamsville Fairgrounds. (We'll check out the time for you.) On Sept. 11, from 10:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., the Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs of Sullivan County will sponsor a program called YOUTH OUTDOOR EXPO at the Grahamsville Fairgrounds. This sounds like a lot of fun for young people interested in wild life and the natural world around them. (We'll have more information on this event in next week's issue.) For dinner, you have a choice: enjoy a meal at the First Annual Chicken Barbeque, sponsored by the Sundown Methodist Church (hours 4-7 p.m.), or the varied offerings of a Smorgasbord at the Grahamsville Reformed Church. OR: (wives, suggest this to your husbands) - buy and eat a meal at one place; then pick up a take-out meal at the other to warm up for your Sunday dinner! (It's unfortunate when two worthy choices end up on the same date.)... And on the weekend of Sept. 18-19, you can enjoy the Neversink Rondout Antique Machinery Association Show.

The Grahamsville Deli became an entertainment center Sunday afternoon when Albi Beluli gave a free concert there for customers. This is a talented young man, whose music was enjoyed by a roomful of mixed-age listeners. If we can get advance notice of another show in the weeks ahead, we'll spread the word.

I just found this quotation recently, and I have a feeling that it may become one of my favorites.

"The best time to plant a tree was 20 years ago. The next best time is now." (Chinese proverb)
Have a great week, everybody. (pah)

BLUEBERRY OR HUCKLEBERRY

By Peggy DeWire

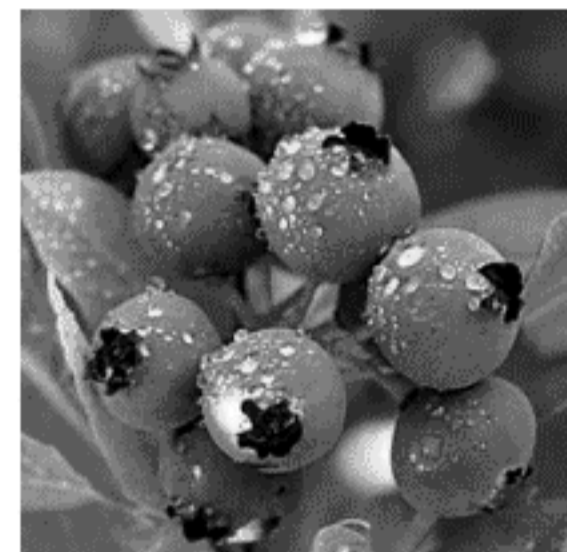

After we picked blueberries that morning, I looked at the three ladies slumped tiredly at my kitchen table and joked, "You all look with purple mouths!"

Betty cracked back, "Peggy, you look funny yourself with all those blueberry leaves in your hair."

As I brought iced tea and a plate of muffins to the table, Mary asked if I put blueberries or huckleberries in them. And what's the difference anyway? I told her that there was only one difference and she'd notice it herself as she ate up her bucket of berries. Otherwise they were almost the same.

Both plants belong to the Heath family (Erica), a huge one with 3,400 species. Many are hardy woody bushes that grow in cooler zones in acid soil over most of the U.S., Canada and north to the Alaskan tundra.

Six species are true huckleberries (gaylussacia) usually navy blue with ten crunchy seeds in each berry. Some have light blue berries. The fruit is full of flavor and slightly gritty.

By contrast, seven species of true blueberries (vaccinium) are usually cadet blue and each berry is filled with many soft seeds. The flavor is delicious. Some highbush and lowbush produce dark blueberries.

To sort out the confusion you can't tell the difference on the basis of color.

The seed test - crunchy or not - is reliable even on plump cultivated blueberries sold in stores.

Blueberries are a very healthy food containing antioxidants that repair DNA damage and anthocyanins in the blue coloring that improve eyesight.

In the early 1900's plant breeders domesticated the wild highbush blueberry into the plump tasty one we enjoy today. Of the annual 224 million pounds harvested in 30 states and Canada, 90% are sold as fresh. Peak harvest is in July, also known as National Blueberry Month here.

Blueberry growers use special blueberry Bees (Osmia ribifloris) for best pollination because they are so good at it. Just two bees can take care of a bush for a whole summer! Blueberry Bees are much smaller than a honey bee, solitary, gentle and a lovely metallic blue.

To attract nesting Blueberry Bees, growers drill little holes in wooden blocks and hang them in bushes and places sheltered from bad weather. In the wild, Blueberry Bees nest in hollow plant stems and empty snail shells.

Blueberries have fewer insect pests than most other plants. I suspect this is because many members of the Heath family have poisonous andromedotoxin in sap and leaves. Interestingly the caterpillar of a beautiful moth is resistant to the toxin and eats its way to becoming a Blueberry Hawk moth with a velvet brown body and apricot wings.

Leaf roller and aphid are controlled with pyrethrin dusting. This natural derivative from chrysanthemums isn't toxic to humans and degrades quickly.

Over refills of iced tea and more muffins, we swapped blueberry cooking hints such as adding lemon juice and cornstarch to pureed berries for blueberry soup. Dusting berries with flour before adding them to cake batter keeps them from sinking to the bottom. Measure out and add still-frozen berries to recipes. Sprinkle a handful of fresh berries on top of a wedge of blueberry pie before serving.

Some favorite recipes were swapped and Gloria gave me her famous Huckle Buckle cake. As the ladies got up to leave, we all agreed to pick blueberries again next week because it was such fun.

WATER DISCOVERY CENTER ADVISOR TO ATTEND WORLD WATER CONFERENCE IN STOCKHOLM (From Pg. 1)

Marcia Brewster is a senior consultant with Nautilus International Development Consulting, Inc., and a former Senior Officer for Water Resources at the United Nations Division for Sustainable Development. She will travel to Sweden as a representative of the WDC, which is developing an exhibition and education center in the Catskills focused on regional and global water issues.

Over two decades, Stockholm has become the annual meeting place for the international water world, called together by the Stockholm International Water Institute (SIWI). H.M. King Carl XVI Gustaf of Sweden is the Patron of the Stockholm Water Prize which this year will be awarded to Dr. Rita Colwell for her pioneering research on the prevention of waterborne infectious diseases. Dr. Colwell is Distinguished Professor at the University of Maryland and Johns Hopkins University's Bloomberg School of Public Health.

The theme of this year's Water Week is "The Water Quality Challenge - Prevention, Wise Use and Abatement." Explains Ms. Brewster, "It is an opportunity to gather and demonstrate the experiences, technologies and resources that people are mobilizing in order to deal with water quality management problems. One excellent example of effective water management is the 1997 New York City Watershed Memorandum of Agreement (MOA), a many-layered partnership to protect water quality for millions of New Yorkers as well as to assist residents and businesses in the Watershed. The experts gathered in Stockholm will be interested in learning more about this agreement, which will be among many examples to be discussed and analyzed as alternatives to address current and future water quality problems."

The Catskill Watershed Corporation, which was born out of the MOA, is supporting the efforts to establish the Water Discovery Center, envisioned as an educational resource and tourist attraction.

Ms. Brewster has recently been part of a team working on the Brooklyn-Rotterdam Waterfront Exchange for the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey with the City of Rotterdam. She coordinated all the UN activities for the International Water for Life Decade, 2005 to 2015 and the International Year of Freshwater 2003, and covered the water resources agenda at the World Summit on Sustainable Development in Johannesburg in 2002. Former manager of the UN Interagency Task Force on Gender and Water, Ms. Brewster also served as president of the Group on Equal Rights for Women in the UN. She holds an M.Sc. in development economics from Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service, and spent 13 years living and working in Asia.

At the Stockholm conference, Ms. Brewster will meet with many former colleagues from around the world to mobilize support for the WDC and explore the possibility of their contributions to the Center. The WDC is planned for a 43-acre site in the Town of Middletown in the geographic center of the Catskill-Delaware New York City Watershed. For more information, visit: www.waterdiscoverycenter.org.

NOTE FROM LIBERTY FREE THEATRE:

Our plea to you is twofold. One is our hope that you can afford to send a tax-deductible donation to help in the immediate financial crisis. The second plea is for volunteer help to get about the business of achieving long-term funding and for providing the Theatre with enough people power to overcome our chronic understaffing.

We're establishing committees in areas necessary to insure the permanence of the Theatre. To that end, there will be an organizational meeting for the Theatre soon. We're looking for people who would like to serve on the following committees:

- Fundraising - grant writers, individual donor solicitors, benefit organizers, etc.
- Community Outreach - engaging other community organizations, reaching out to all groups and cultures
- Business Outreach - soliciting businesses for donations, sponsorships, and in kind assistance for props, foodstuffs, office materials, etc.
- Management - Organizing and maintaining office procedures
- Publicity - keeping in touch with press outlets and envisioning imaginative ways to inform the public about events and performances
- Volunteers - finding and scheduling volunteer help for rehearsals and production
- Building - searching for and funding an appropriate new space that will afford more comfort for our audiences and more space to present performances

If you would like to help in any of these areas please call us at 845-292-3788 or email us at libertyfreetheatre@mac.com. And, as always, whatever tax-deductible donation you can afford to send would be greatly appreciated.

The encouraging irony of our present circumstance is that we could not have arrived at this sixth-year turning point without your support and enthusiasm. Your devotion to The Liberty Free Theatre demonstrates how relatively small communities like Sullivan County all across the country are desirous of and - with a little help from their friends - could support a permanent theatre.

With great appreciation for your continued support,

BELLEAYRE FESTIVAL OPERA TO STAGE ROSSINI'S TIMELESS 'CINDERELLA' TALE (From Pg. 1)

Artistic Director/Producer/Stage Director Donald Westwood returns to put his signature stamp on the timeless story of Rossini's "Cinderella" ("La Cenerentola"). In this variation of the traditional "Cinderella" story, the wicked stepmother is replaced by a stepfather, Don Magnifico. The Fairy Godmother is replaced by Alidoro, a philosopher and the Prince's tutor. Cinderella is identified not by her glass slipper but by her bracelet. The show will reflect Mr. Westwood's unique comic stamp.

Opera News magazine has called Mr. Westwood's shows "a dynamic alternative to the giants at Lincoln Center."

Several years ago, the Belleayre Conservatory commissioned Don Westwood to create a new children's opera based on the children's story "The Three Little Pigs." The opera had its world premiere in 2007 at the festival and received an enthusiastic reception from the audience. This interactive performance features music from great opera composers and lyrics and story by Mr. Westwood.

In a career approaching four decades, Donald Westwood has capitalized, produced, directed, marketed, and managed more than 200 productions in the fields of musical theatre, opera, operetta, concerts, special events, and programs for young audiences and senior citizens. His productions have been seen from Maine to Key West, from New York City to Las Vegas and the West Coast, and from Brazil to Australia.

Mr. Westwood is Artistic Director of the Jacksonville Lyric Opera, where he will produce and direct "Die Fledermaus" and "Cinderella." In addition, he will produce a national tour of Oklahoma next year.

Richard Tucker's Community Chorale Chorale of the Catskills and chamber orchestra conducted by maestro John Covelli, will provide musical backing.

All school age children and teens are invited to attend this performance free when accompanied by an adult.

WILDCAT FELLOW ANDREA JENKINS

(From Pg. 1) The show is entitled "Summer (In) Sight" and features the drawings that Jenkins completed during her term of residency as the 2010 Wildcat Fellow.

The centerpiece of the show is a 5' X 10' drawing in three panels. In it, Jenkins gathers seemingly disparate images through sketching and photocopying. The images are synthesized into complex compositions and rendered with watercolor, graphite, and ink on paper. Like recent sculptural work by co-exhibitor Emily Brown--who is showing life-size castings of rats and hawks--Andrea Jenkins' drawings explore relationships between urban and rural, man-made and natural, and fantasy and reality.

Andrea Jenkins lives and works in Brooklyn. She received a BFA in painting from The University of Nebraska-Lincoln and is an MFA candidate at Brooklyn College. Her work has been exhibited throughout Nebraska and in New (Next Col.)

York City. Her Web site is <http://www.andrea.theplasticfactory.us>.

Born and raised in Dallas, Texas, Emily Brown received her B.F.A in visual art education at the University of North Texas, where she studied printmaking, ceramics and sculpture. Brown now teaches art to approximately 1400 K-6th grade students in Allen, Texas, while continuing to develop her own portfolio in the sculpture studio at Collin College.

The Wildcat Fellowship Program awards a residency in the Catskill Mountains to one or more gifted emerging artists each year. The fellowships are awarded in alternate years to visual artists and performing artists. The program, now in its third year, provides a place to work in a newly renovated artist's studio at the foot of Wildcat Mountain, bed and board in an area home, and an exhibition or viewing to which members of the community are invited. The program gives urban artists a chance to experience art-making in a rural mountain setting of peace and beauty. It also provides young artists with a chance to connect to new audiences in the Catskills.

The curator of the fellowship program is Patricia Eakins, and the executive director is Peter Martin, both Claryville residents.

"WESTFRISIAN RINGDIKE WALK: FAST FORWARD ON AN ANCIENT DUTCH DIKE" IS COMING TO ASK IN SEPTEMBER

On Saturday, September 11 at 8 pm, Pe Okx's film about his year-long walk of the Westfries Ringdike will be shown at the Arts Society of Kingston. The artist, who will be visiting from his home city of Alkmaar, will introduce the film, which was shown in numerous sold-out performances in July in the Netherlands as part of the Karavaan arts festival. The 45-minute-long movie has an original soundtrack composed by Okx, which is a recording of a live performance accompanying the film showing in Holland.

For centuries the Westfries Ringdike, located in the north of Holland, has protected the land against devastating floods. The 80-mile-long circular dike has left its mark on the surrounding environment, spurring the development of cities and villages. But today it is for the most part forgotten, an ancient earthwork congealed in the evolving landscape, traversed by railroads, canals and archways.

Okx has lived alongside the dike for more than 30 years and had long been fascinated by its monumental form, in such contrast to the swirl of movement and activity around it-- from bikers, runners and skaters, cars and trucks, and herds of cows and sheep. He saw the dike as an invitation to a different time perspective, and so a year ago he began an epic project of his own, in which he divided the dike into 12 parts and began walking each section one day a month, recording his circumlocution with his camera: after every three steps, he took a photograph. When the walk was completed last June, Okx had amassed 48,000 images, from which he crafted this film. In contrast to the painstaking slowness of his walk, the film takes the viewer around the dike at vertiginous speed, through dawns and sunsets, sunshine and drizzle, the gray of winter and the yellow-green of spring.

In July, Okx presented 19 showings of the film in the cities of Alkmaar, Hoorn, and Schagen as part of the month-long Karavaan summer festival, with most performances sold out. Old barns and farmhouses at the three locations served as the theaters. "A monument for a monument," reported the Noord-Hollands Dagblad magazine in its review. "It's almost hypnotizing how one is pulled at high speed through the Westfries landscape." The national newspaper De Volkskrant noted that "the repetitive, meditative character of the movie has a stunning effect on the spectator, thanks to its unusual perspective and profoundness." Many of the spectators also contributed comments. "It's a beautiful, meditative document about the dike, but also about nature, light and a man who moves at his own speed through time," wrote one audience member.

Okx, a multi-media artist who has shown his work extensively in the Netherlands and throughout Europe, was one of nine Dutch artists who participated in the Ulster County artists' residency program in 2009 as part of the Hudson Quadricentennial Celebration. During the residency he showed two of his video pieces in Kingston, one in an abandoned garage on the waterfront and a second piece, projected on hanging shards of glass, in the Shirt Factory. More than a literal portrait of an ancient dike, the film creates a new awareness in the viewer about his or her perspective on time, the seasons, and the land.

"WOMEN SPEAK OUT" ABOUT GAS DRILLING (From Pg. 1)

"They are information-packed portraits," says Baronio. "One mandate we had is that we remain neutral. I didn't know what side of the gas drilling issue they were on, and I didn't want to know."

Baronio studied art history at Kenyon College in Ohio and went on to receive an MFA at Yale in 1976. While studying art history and anthropology, she enrolled in a photography course and, much to her surprise, found she preferred making new images to researching existing ones.

In the late 1970s, Baronio spent four years photographing sex show performers in her Times Square studio, while she was studying under Walker Evans at Yale. The series was published in the large-format book "42nd Street Studio" which received the Award for Excellence from the American Institute of Graphic Arts in 1980.

Interviewer Ellen Bay, a New Yorker who lives half-time in the Narrowsburg area, is a psychologist who worked in community outreach for 27 years. "I love listening to people's stories," she says.

This exhibit, free and open to the public, is sponsored by the Delaware Valley Arts Alliance, the Arts Council for Sullivan County, NY, and is made possible in part with public funds from the New York State Council on the Arts, celebrating 50 years of building strong, creative communities in New York State's 62 counties.

FROST VALLEY YMCA SELECTED TO OFFER LIVESTRONG AT THE YMCA - Physical Activity and Well-Being Initiative for Cancer Survivors

Project is part of multi-year partnership between YMCA of the USA and LIVESTRONG

The Frost Valley YMCA is one of 10 YMCAs across the country recently selected to offer LIVESTRONG at the YMCA, a physical activity and well-being program that addresses the special wants, needs and interests of cancer survivors.

Launched in 2008, LIVESTRONG at the YMCA is part of a multi-year collaboration between YMCA of the USA and LIVESTRONG focused on supporting the health and well-being of people affected by cancer. With 12 million cancer survivors living in the United States today, there is a great need to offer those living with and beyond cancer a safe and accommodating environment where they can engage in physical and social activities. LIVESTRONG at the YMCA, currently available at 30 YMCAs serving more than 60 communities, employs a holistic approach to help cancer survivors achieve their health and well-being goals.

"Medical studies show that moderate levels of appropriate physical activity can reduce fatigue, boost self esteem and improve muscle strength and physical endurance in individuals following cancer treatment," said Andy Miller, LIVESTRONG Executive Vice President of Mission. "However, physical activity and wellness programs specifically for cancer survivors are scarce (Contd. Pg. 9)

"Working with the YMCA is ideal," Miller said, "because of the Y's commitment to meeting the needs of all community members, history of program innovation in support of health and wellness and their presence in communities across the nation. Together, we are confident we can make an unprecedented difference in the way we inspire and empower people affected by cancer."

As a participant, the Frost Valley YMCA will implement promising approaches to support cancer survivors, including creating/enhancing partnerships in the oncology community, developing and delivering a physical activity and well-being program for cancer survivors, training (Next Col.)

program leaders, and modifying environments to meet the needs of participants.

"LIVESTRONG at the YMCA will allow us to more effectively involve cancer survivors - and their families - at the Frost Valley YMCA through programs that focus on their specific health and well-being," said Laura Johnson, Forstmann Family Center Director. "Our goal is to provide the most supportive environment we can during their treatment and beyond."

ity and employment. Every dollar spent locally has the potential to generate profit several times its face value, while a dollar spent at a chain store leaves our community, and we benefit very little.

In a recent economic analysis conducted in Texas, it was found that for every $100 spent at a national retailer, only $13 stayed in the local economy. When that same $100 was spent at a locally owned business, more than $45 stayed in the local economy.

Remember, it is the local merchant that is called upon to sponsor your child or grandchild's sport event; it is the local merchant that is called upon for donations for community fundraisers.

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL BUSINESSES

While we know outsourcing affecting the US economy is a matter of great debate, we also know the importance of supporting local business. For example, when local businesses thrive, they tend to spend their money locally which strengthens the community with more jobs and more business, which in turn, boosts the local tax base that could improve our schools, municipalities and the quality of the life in our own towns.

Small locally owned businesses are an important part of a community's economy, as every time a dollar is spent, it generates a dollar's worth of economic activity. Who are the local merchants in the Tri-Valley area? We may not see too many stores on Main Street anymore, but there are plenty of semi-skilled, or skilled laborers, and don't forget the artists or the crafters who create from their homes. They too, can have a great impact on the economics of our local communities.

In September of 2008 when the stock market took a tumble and the economy looked quite gloomy, an on-line leader of craft business sites selling handmade/crafted items reported a 5% increase that August, and by September of 2008 the sale of handmade items that were sold from that site reached nearly $8 million.

By the end 2008, craft sales from that same on-line service actually tripled from 2007, and this site continues to grow rapidly showing that the growth in craft business volume is happening despite the worst economic downturn of recent times.

What does this mean for the Tri-Valley area? The good news is that those who make and sell handmade crafts are in one of the businesses that are prospering during this recession.

So get those fingers busy and start creating.

Once your craft is complete, what's the next step? You could find other artists in the area and share the rent on an Artistry Shop/Gallery and open on weekends and maybe serve tea and dainty little morsels. But, if your business does not gross more than ten times your storefront costs, perhaps you might want to stick to selling your wares on the internet.

There are a number of sites to choose from. Locally, there is the Gnome Home at gnomehome.net that is available for local crafters and artisans.

Although selling crafts on a website from your home may not add digits to the Gross National Product, today a crafter may see that they can revel in their creativity while helping add to the cash flow of their own household budget which eventually could, like any other local business, give a boost to the local economy.

And for those who would consider purchasing handcrafted items made in your own hometown or locale - you know for sure it was made in the U.S.A.!

It may be just a small step, but it is a step in the right direction - whether you are a crafter, artisan or consumer, remember the importance of supporting our local businesses!

"It is difficult to understand the logic of this attempt," said Auerbach, "the Charter is absolutely clear that the annual financial audit is #1 mandatory and #2 a duty of the Comptroller."

The Ulster County Charter designates the Comptroller as the chief auditing officer and specifically details audit duties the Comptroller is to undertake.

"As the people's watchdog, I must wonder why legislators fear an independent financial audit," said Auerbach, "and I certainly will not back down from this attempt to undermine my duty to the people."

Until the Charter became effective the Legislature both appropriated and administered taxpayer funds. "It was that 'fox-in-the-hen-house' experience that, I believe, caused voters to approve the Charter," said Auerbach.

"The Legislature sets policy and appropriates funds, the Executive manages and administers funds," explained Auerbach, "the Comptroller's role is independent oversight which is why no management, administrative or appropriating functions were delegated to the office."

Legislators have based their apparent "power grab" on language in the Charter that says the Legislature will "provide for the annual audit..." As the appropriating body, the Legislature provides or "furnishes the means of support for" the audit and other mandates of the Charter.

"The Charter wisely requires the Legislature to fund the annual audit so the County's financial statements can be relied upon and so the audit is not used as a political football," said Auerbach. "The people have a right to an independent audit, not one conducted by the body that sets policy or appropriates funds."

The Charter abolished the position of elected Treasurer and distributed the duties of that office to an appointed Commissioner of Finance and the creation of the Comptroller's office whose mandate it is to independently oversee the operation of county government to assure honest, efficiency and effectiveness in its operation.

FOOD GLORIOUS FOOD (From Pg. 1)

"These food festivals highlight the amazing bounty that Ulster County family farms and food producers have to offer," said County Executive Mike Hein. "Travelling Ulster County to enjoy our delicious corn, ribs and blueberry pie should be everyone's plan for the weekend. Ulster County is just a short drive from New York and our scenery is beautiful."

Starting with dessert before dinner you could find Blueberry pies, tarts, jam, shortcake and more at the Shawangunk Mountain Wild Blueberry Festival in Ellenville, NY on Saturday. Once wild and plentifully along the Shawangunk Ridge, blueberries brought seasonal workers to the region to harvest this tasty fruit that was sold to the earliest Catskill resorts. Still found in abundance in the preserved lands surrounding Ellenville, this festival featured music from two stages, BBQ, all-blueberry bake sale and pie judging contest, crafts, environmental, cultural and historical exhibits, an arts show and a children's area with games provided enough activity to keep the whole family happy.

If fresh berries didn't tickle your fancy, just picked, sun-sweetened corn harvested from the rich, flatland found along the Rondout Valley may have been more to your liking at the annual Hurley Corn Festival hosted by the Hurley Reformed Church in Hurley NY. Once there, locavores delighted in fresh sweet corn harvested from the hundreds of acres of fields hugging Route 209. Festival goers found corn steamed, barbecued and raw along with craft vendors, food, children's activities, craft demonstrations, and a cooking contest.

If you were still hungry, and you saved room there were finger-licking good barbecued ribs! The Hudson Valley RibFest at the Ulster County Fairgrounds in New Paltz, NY, is THE place to be for rib lovers. This two-day festival was actually two events in one - a food festival and a sanctioned Barbecue Contest where winners could advance to the national finals in Kansas City!

County Executive Mike Hein attended each of the festivals this weekend as he encouraged all of the County residents and visitors to the County to go out and enjoy the wonderful foods Ulster County has to offer. For more information about any of these festivals or for places to stay while eating your way through Ulster County, visit: www.ulstercountyalive.com

CAHILL: CALL CENTER LEGISLATION SIGNED INTO LAW

Bill Will Protect Jobs, Improve Safety & Services
Assemblymember Kevin Cahill (D-Ulster, Dutchess) announced that the Governor signed legislation (A.7593/S.4208) to control the closure of call centers by public utilities in New York State. The new law requires a hearing before the Public Service Commission when a public utility proposes to close or relocate an existing call center.

"This new rule will enhance customer service, protect local jobs and promote public safety," Assemblymember Cahill said.

Locally-based utility employees play an important role in coordinating the efforts of local staff as well as emergency response crews brought in from outside of impacted communities.

"This law is a step in the right direction to ensuring a greater level of responsiveness and sensitivity to local conditions," said Assemblymember Cahill. "Community-based employees have a vested interest in the safety and general well-being of the areas in which they live and a familiarity with rules, regulations, and programs accessible to customers in need."

Some public utilities have considered closing or relocating call centers, claiming cost savings and more efficient customer service. However, such measures may compromise timeliness and quality of responses to emergency calls. Call center performance was the subject of scrutiny during Energy Committee hearings earlier this year and in 2009. The hearings examined the causes and response to severe weather events that resulted in widespread power outages.

"Locating call centers out-of-state and outside the service area of these companies could present real problems during our next big storm," said Assemblymember Cahill. "Moving call centers to other states would harm New York's economy and potentially threaten quality of service and overall safety. Local workers' knowledge of the systems, geography and conditions on the ground are essential to the effective deployment of emergency response units."

Business Agent Don Tuttel of IBEW Local 83 said, "This is landmark legislation that will be copied in spirit by many other labor organizations. I would like to further recognize and thank Kevin Cahill for his hard work and perseverance on this legislation and unwavering commitment to labor."

"There remain many aspects of our utility call services that need to be examined. In particular, emergency responsiveness is key among them. This law will put us on the path to increased safety for all New Yorkers while protecting jobs for local utility workers," said Assemblymember Cahill.

AUTHORS CAROL AND DAVID WHITE LEAD A HIKE THROUGH KELLY HOLLOW

On Saturday, hikers enjoyed a moderately easy and scenic four-mile hike through Kelly Hollow with David and Carol White at the Pakatakan Farmers' Market, Route 30, Halcottsville at the final writers' tour of the 'Catskill Arts & Air' open-air arts series.

The Whites led hikers on trails through Kelly Hollow which offered a very scenic four-mile hike with a variety of forest and terrain, beautiful streams and a lean-to in a terrific setting with a pond and tall pines.

Hikers then proceeded at a relaxed pace on this moderately easy hike, which ascends a total of 400 feet. Participants experienced cascades and views of rushing streams and waterfalls, paths that wind through shady evergreen woods, forest bridges and an old rock foundation, lunch at a lean-to in a very scenic setting near a pond under tall pines complete with picnic table and fireplace.

David and Carol White are authors of Catskill Day Hikes for All Seasons and editors of Catskill Trails, both Adirondack Mountain Club publications. They measured 345 miles of Catskill trails with a surveying wheel from 2001-2003 to produce the third edition of Catskill Trails and to update the New York-New Jersey Trail Conference's five-map set of the Catskill Forest Preserve.

David is membership chair of the Catskill 3500 Club and a director of ADK. Carol is conservation chair of the Catskill 3500 Club and served four years on the Adirondack 46ers Club executive board. Carol is author of Women with Altitude: Challenging the Adirondack High Peaks in Winter, Catskill Peak Experiences: Mountaineering Tales of Endurance, Survival, Exploration & Adventure and Adirondack Peak Experiences: Mountaineering Adventures, Misadventures and the Pursuit of The 46.

Artist demonstrations continued at the market from 10 a.m.-noon with Val Wells demonstrating the art of paper marbling. She showed the process by floating paint on a surface of viscous liquid, move the floating paint with rakes and combs to draw patterns, and transfer these designs to paper.

'Catskill Arts & Air' is an open-air arts collaboration presenting events every Saturday during the summer at the Pakatakan Farmers Market. Events are free. For more info, visit www.catsguild.org or call 845-586-3443. Funded in part by the Catskill Watershed Corporation and the O'Connor Foundation.

The market operates from 9 a.m.-2 p.m., each Saturday through Columbus Day at the Round Barn on Route 30, Halcottsville. Admission is free. Information: pfmarket.org

CAS ARTS CENTER RECIPIENT OF TWO GRANTS

The Catskill Art Society (CAS) is pleased to announce the two grants they have been awarded this summer. In June, the Delaware Valley Arts Alliance approved the recommendation of a Sullivan County Arts and Heritage Grant to fund CAS's multi-disciplinary programming for youth and adults. This program included performances by Karen Hudson River Band, the Catskill Puppet Theater, and yet to be presented performance artist, Laylage Courie on Saturday, September 11 at 7:30pm. The Sullivan County Arts and Heritage Grant is made possible with funding from the Sullivan County Legislators and is in the amount of $1,650. In July, the New York State Council on the Arts (NYSCA) approved $21,000, the second year of a two year grant for general operating expenses. The Catskill Art Society expressed their appreciation of these grants, particularly in light of challenging times in New York State.

BACK TO SCHOOL MAILING TIPS FROM THE POSTAL SERVICE

Parents needing to send care packages of essential items to the young adults they recently shipped off to college campuses after paying cold, hard cash for that first semester's tuition bill can save some extra money by looking no further than their local Post Office. For Back to School, it's all in the box: the Priority Mail Flat Rate Box from the U.S. Postal Service.

That's the simplicity of shipping with a Priority Mail Flat Rate Box. Everything you need for a student care package will fit into one of four different sized boxes available - and will ship for one flat price no matter the weight or destination.

Home-baked goods and other snack foods, school supplies, gift cards, music CDs, and even travel tickets to visit home make the perfect Back to School in a Box care package for students arriving at college campuses across the country.

"When shipping packages to college students on campus, Flat Rate Boxes from the Postal Service offer great value and convenience," said Joseph Lubrano, U.S. Postal Service Westchester District Manager. "With a range of boxes to choose from, customers can find the right sized package to meet their needs. And with one flat rate, the price of Priority Mail Flat Rate shipping is always right too."

Lubrano added that Priority Mail flat-rate packages arrive in an average of 2-3 days. Saturday and residential deliveries are included at no extra cost.

SUPERVISOR'S CORNER

By: Greg J. Goldstein, Town of Neversink Supervisor

Reminder The Town Hall will be closed on September 6th in observance of Labor Day.

Assessor's Office The Assessor's Office have been updating their Property Record Cards of property owners in the Town of Neversink. They will be visiting each piece of property and taking photographs between now and October. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact Gene Froehlich and/or Joan McNeill at 985-2262 ext. 323, 319.

Burning Permit Reminder for those who have permits: please remember to call 985-2262 ext. 320 and listen to the message prior to igniting any permitted open fire.

Carbon Monoxide Alarms The New York State Fire Prevention and Building Code Council has adopted a rule implementing "Amanda's Law", which mandates the installation of carbon monoxide alarms in most dwellings in New York State. A copy of the regulations can be obtained from the Building Department at the Town Hall in Grahamsville. These regulations went into effect on February 22, 2010.

Dept. of Motor Vehicles The DMV will be at the Town Hall from 10 AM to 2:30 PM on September 16th and October 14th. At this time, they are not scheduled to be here in November.

Neversink Renaissance Many thanks to Lori Mickelson, Carol Smythe, Time and the Valleys Museum and all the volunteers on the beautiful job done on the cemetery restoration project. Several of our small cemeteries located throughout the town were cleaned up and are now identifiable by signs which were purchased through a beautification grant I was able to secure through Senator Bonacic.

Parks & Rec The Parks & Rec Office is open every Tuesday from 3-6 PM at the Town Hall. Director Jamie Brooks is available at that time for sign-ups and to answer whatever questions you may have.

Sewer Project Update I would like to take this opportunity to thank the homeowners that endured the process of extending the Grahamsville sewer district as I know it was not always easy, but we did prevail and the benefit of this new sewer extension will be realized over the years.

Stream Management Program The Sullivan County Soil & Water Conservation District and NYC DEP, along with cooperation from the Towns of Neversink and Denning will be developing stream management plans for the upper Rondout Creek and the East and West Branches of the Neversink River. It is through this effort that they will be looking at ways to prevent damage to property owners caused by chronic flooding, erosion problems, etc. We are happy to report that they have a staffed office located in the Town Hall and can be reached at 985-2581.

If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact me at 985-2262 ext. 301.

LLOYD MAN ARRESTED FOR ANIMAL CRUELTY

Acting on a tip from a local veterinarian, the Ulster County SPCA arrested James Pezzo, 49, of 43 New Paltz Rd., Town of Lloyd last Thursday for failing to provide veterinary care to his 4 year old dog, a misdemeanor under state Agriculture and Markets law. Pezzo allowed a rusted collar to become embedded in the flesh of his dog's neck, resulting in a serious infection and potential strangulation. Emergency surgery was needed to remove the metal chain.

"This was a grievous injury. Once the chain was removed, sutures covered three quarters of the dog's neck. Clearly, this animal was in great pain" said Adam Saunders, Cruelty Investigator. The dog was immediately brought to the Ulster County SPCA shelter in Kingston for medical care, where he remains under the supervision of veterinarians and staff. Pezzo will be arraigned at Town of Lloyd Court on August 26th at 4:30PM.

The UCSPCA is a private, nonprofit organization dedicated to preventing cruelty to animals in Ulster County. Donations may be sent to UCSPCA 20 Wiedy Rd. Kingston, NY 12401.

NO SEPTEMBER SHOW FOR WORKSHOP - BUT SEASON EXTENDED

Regretfully and unavoidably, the Sullivan County Dramatic Workshop announces that its September production of "Cover Stories" (performances originally slated for September 3, 4, 5, 10, 11, 12) has been canceled. Our next production, live on stage at the Rivoli Theatre in South Fallsburg will be the fantastically funny farce "Bathroom Humor" by Jane Millmore and Billy Van Zandt with performances October 1, 2, 3, 8, 9, 10.

However, the SCDW happily announces that it is extending the original season with six performances (October 22, 23, 24, 29, 30, 31) of a powerfully gripping, sensual and seductive "Dracula" based on the classic by Bram Stoker and adapted for the stage by Hamilton Deane and John L. Balderston.

For SCDW Season Ticket holders, to compensate for the cancellation of "Cover Stories" - not only will your Season Ticket entitle you to see "Dracula" but will also will access you to the smaller, off-season productions usually staged at the Sullivan County Museum in Hurleyville including our Holiday Show and Valentine's Cabaret - and basically any performance the SCDW stages between now and April, 2011.

CONGREGATION AGUDAS ACHIM - LIVINGSTON MANOR

The High Holy Days of the year 5710 will be here soon. Jews are mysteriously called to return to our roots during this season. Congregation Agudas Achim of Livingston Manor welcomes all who wish to share this season of introspection and faith to join with our community. No tickets are needed, but donations will be greatly appreciated to help maintain our historic building and support our educational programs. We encourage anyone who seeks to renew their relationship with God or desires to connect with their heritage to be with us.

Agudas Achim is affiliated with the Union for Reform Judaism. However retaining a traditional feeling to our services is very important. Rabbi Fredric Pomerantz will lead Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur services with the assistance of Marian Kleinman our Cantorial Soloist. His warm personality and her beautiful music will help create a special opportunity for introspection and atonement during the Days of Awe. Our historic synagogue helps create a spiritual atmosphere which enhances the prayer experience. Rabbi Pomerantz is beginning his sixth year as the spiritual leader of Agudas Achim.

The congregation conducts an annual non-perishable food drive to benefit the Livingston Manor food pantry. Donations should be brought to services. We join with other Reform congregations which hold similar drives to remind us of our obligations to those less fortunate. Also we hold a communal Yom Kippur break-fast.

For more information about the high holidays or the Agudas Achim community call Bob Freedman at 439-5708, Ellen Singer at 482-4100 or Judy Siegel at 292-2552. Hebrew School will be starting soon. Now is the time to enroll. Please call Ellen Singer our Hebrew School director for details. Additional information about Agudas Achim is available at www.congregationagudasachim.org

VACCINATION AWARENESS: SCHOOL STARTS SOON- MAKE SURE YOUR CHILDREN ARE IMMUNIZED.

The Ulster County Department of Health would like to remind families that as they plan to head back to school in the coming weeks, they should also check to see if their children's immunizations are up-to-date. Although some vaccine-preventable diseases have become very rare because of vaccines, outbreaks still occur. This is why ensuring that children receive vaccinations on time is very important to their overall health-in addition to the health of their friends, classmates, and the community. Receiving the necessary vaccinations will also ensure that enrollment of children is not delayed.

For more information, please refer to the attached 2010 child, adolescent and adult immunization schedules. A copy of UCDOH's updated clinic schedule for children and adults has also been attached. If you have any questions, please contact UCDOH's Communicable Disease Program at 845-340-3090.

Denning Democrats

With less than four weeks until the Democratic Primary, the campaign for New York's next Attorney General continues to surge forward. The five candidates for the Democratic nomination are Sean Coffey, Richard L. Brodsky, Eric R. Dinallo, Kathleen M. Rice, and Eric T. Schneiderman. All of these candidates for New York State Attorney General, have vowed stern enforcement of white collar crime, and are also targeting corrupt politicians, a popular issue with voters. At least a dozen city and state politicians have been implicated in corruption scandals within the past year. It's a familiar story for a system that has never fully shed its links to the Tammany Hall political machine that used patronage and corruption to maintain power in the 19th century.
